

Quick Guide to Special Education Dispute Resolution Processes for Parents of Children & Youth (Ages 3-21)

This guide is not intended to interpret, modify, or replace any IDEA Part B procedural safeguards or requirements of federal or state law.

State regulations associated with these processes vary widely. Parents are encouraged to contact their state educational agency or parent center for more information.

	Not required by the IDEA; availability varies by state		Meeting		Hearing Request	& Resolution Meeting
How the Processes Differ	An optional early resolution process where an impartial facilitator assists the IEP team with communication and problem solving.	A voluntary process that brings people together with a mediator, who helps them communicate with each other and resolve their disagreements.	A meeting that takes place after a parent files a due process complaint/hearing request but before a due process hearing takes place.	A written document used to communicate that a public agency (e.g., school district) has not followed the IDEA, and to request an investigation.	A process used to resolve a formal complaint made by a parent or public agency (e.g., school district), who are together referred to as "the parties."	A special type of due process complaint/ hearing request available only in certain situations that relate to a student's discipline and placement.
What Issues & When Used	Used when a parent and school district are unable to agree on important issues related to a child's IEP, or when a meeting is expected to address complex issues or be controversial.	Available anytime there is a disagreement between parents and educators about special education and/or related services.	Used to resolve issues listed in a due process complaint/hearing request. The meeting must occur unless the parent and school district agree in writing not to have the meeting, or to use the mediation process instead.	Available anytime there is a concern about a particular child or an issue that affects children system-wide.	Used to resolve disagreements relating to the identification, evaluation, educational placement or provision of a free, appropriate public education (FAPE) to a child who needs or is suspected of needing special education and related services.	Used when parents disagree with a school district's discipline-related decision that affects their child's placement, or whether the child's behavior is related to his or her disability. A school district may use this process if it believes that a child's behavior could be dangerous to the child or others.
Who Initiates	A parent or school district may request IEP facilitation. A state educational agency may also recommend this, as an alternative to a more formal process.	A parent or school district may request mediation. A state educational agency may also recommend this, as an alternative to a more formal process.	The school district must hold a resolution meeting within 15 calendar days of receiving notice of a parent's due process complaint/hearing request.	Any person or organization may file a written state complaint.	A parent or school district may file a due process complaint/hearing request.	A parent or school district may file an expedited due process complaint/hearing request.
Outcome or Desired Result	An IEP that is supported by the team members and benefits the child.	A signed, legally enforceable, written agreement.	A signed, legally enforceable, written agreement that resolves issues listed in the due process complaint/hearing request.	A written decision that includes findings and conclusions, and lists reasons for the final decision. Must also include actions required to address the needs of the child or children related to the complaint.	A written decision with findings of fact and conclusions of law, which may order specific activities to be carried out.	A written decision with findings of fact and conclusions of law, which may order the child to be provided with a specific educational placement.
Process Distinctions	IEP facilitation is an early dispute resolution option that is not required by the IDEA. IEP facilitation allows all members of the team the chance to participate fully, since the facilitator serves as the meeting leader.	Mediation discussions are confidential. Mediation is a flexible process – participants may influence the process, and ultimately determine the outcome.	Resolution meetings only occur after a due process complaint/hearing request is filed. The resolution meeting occurs unless the parent and school district both agree in writing not to have the meeting, or go to mediation instead.	This is the only dispute resolution option open to any person or organization, including those unrelated to the child. The final decision may include corrective actions that are child-specific or relate to system-wide issues.	A formal record of the hearing (a written or electronic transcript) must be made and provided to the parent. The decision is appealable in state or federal court. The prevailing party may attempt to recover attorneys' fees in a separate court action.	See Due Process Complaint/Hearing Request
Benefits	May build and improve relationships among IEP team members. Sometimes, team members feel better heard when a facilitator is involved. Can help resolve disagreements more quickly than other options. Keeps decision-making with team members who know the child best. The IEP team may work together more effectively and efficiently.	Discussions are confidential – what is said in mediation can't be used as evidence in a due process hearing or civil lawsuit. A more flexible, less adversarial alternative to other dispute resolution options, like due process complaints/hearing requests. Sometimes, participants work with the mediator to design the process; in some cases, they may be allowed to select the mediator together. Can help resolve disagreements more quickly than other options.	Provides a chance for the parent and school district to work together to resolve issues prior to a due process hearing. Keeps decision-making with the parent and school district who know the child. The school district may only bring an attorney to the resolution meeting if the parent chooses to bring an attorney. The parent or school district may cancel a resolution agreement within 3 business days of the agreement being signed.	A written decision must be issued no later than 60 calendar days after the complaint was received, unless the timeline is extended. A written state complaint is relatively easy to file.	From the date that the complaint is filed until the decision is final, your child stays in his or her current educational placement, unless you and the school district agree otherwise – this is called "pendency" or "stay-put." The decision is legally binding on the parties. The state educational agency is responsible for ensuring the decision is followed, unless it is appealed.	This process is intended to quickly address decisions concerning a student's discipline and placement.
Considerations	Parents and the school district must agree to use IEP facilitation. For the process to be successful, everyone at the meeting needs to respect the role of the facilitator and be willing to participate. The facilitator typically does not address issues unrelated to the IEP.	Mediation is voluntary, so the parent and school district must both agree to participate. Whether there is resolution of the issues, or an agreement is created, depends upon the participants. Complex situations may require multiple mediation sessions to come to agreement. There is no guarantee that a written agreement will be created.	Discussions at the resolution meeting are not confidential, and you cannot be required to sign a confidentiality form to participate in the meeting. Parents and the school district may choose to sign a confidentiality agreement or include it in a resolution agreement.	The person or organization filing the complaint must provide facts to support the problems listed in their complaint. This process does not require those involved to try resolving the dispute collaboratively. Mediation remains available anytime. The IDEA does not require states to offer an appeal process for the written decision—check with your state educational agency for options that may be available.	The decision is made by a hearing officer or administrative law judge who is not involved in the child's education. The decision is legally binding, even if you disagree with the outcome. If a decision is appealed, it may not be carried out until the appeal is final. School districts are typically represented by attorneys. If a parent hires an attorney, it is at their own expense.	The expedited hearing timeline is based on school days, and the resolution meeting period is based on calendar days. It is important to keep timeline differences in mind, especially during or close to times when school is not in session, such as vacations and extended breaks. The resolution period, hearing, and decision timelines cannot be extended.
